↑ SEE•DS

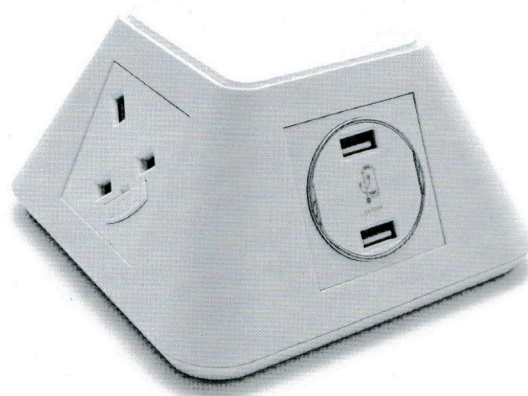

SEE•DS is committed to bringing contemporaneity to the design community, moving between design and art, adopting an innovative, experimental approach. Part of the Icon Design Trail during the London Design Festival this year, SEE•DS presented an exhibition curated by Martino Gamper in collaboration with Actant Visuelle, in which objects were developed by experimenting with materials and making by hand. These objects skirt between the idea of originality and conceptual inventiveness as a provocation to the unwritten regulations governing the commercial system of design.

↓ modulyss

modulyss introduces the Fashion& concept that combines innovative carpet-tile looks with the ability to mix and match. Available in 36 colourways, modulyss creates an opportunity to achieve something personal, while enjoying the matt-gloss effect the new collection delivers. This stand-out collection presents Retro, a combination of yellows, browns and beiges; Pop, defined by its vibrant primary colours; New Natural with myserious, earthy greens; New Luxury with its opulent greys; and Scandinavian's calming pastel hues that showcase a subtler side to the Fashion& concept.

↑ Desso

Desso celebrates iconic textiles in Jeans and Ridge – the latest additions to the 'Essentials' collection. The Jeans range features six denim-inspired shades in three different structures, to create large spaces through different textures and subtle patterns. From a light stonewashed effect to a distinct denim woven look, designers can coordinate and contrast in three different pattern combinations. Ridge is a finely textured organic carpet tile available in 12 shades; a true interior essential with its soft, subtle grooves replicating the natural erosion of the elements.
