Bouquets

Elodie Blanchard creates intricate colourful rich bouquets made of small repurposed textiles, plastic bags, mylar balloons and snack packaging that she layers and stitches together. Each collage is unique, at times realistic, at times abstract, and vary from being small in sizes to large patterns.

The inspiration for the collages stems from photographs she takes on her daily walks in and around Brooklyns Green-wood Cemetery.

BOUQUET 1, 2021

Elodie Blanchard

Elodie Blanchard creates intricate colorful rich bouquets made of small repurposed scraps of textiles, plastic bags, mylar balloons and snack packaging that she layers and stitches together. These collages are all unique, at times realistic, at times abstract, from small sizes to large patterns.

Blanchard is playing with the contrast between the ephemerality of floral arrangements often commemorating important events and the long lifecycle of the waste materials she uses. The inspiration for these collages is drawn from the pictures she takes on her daily walks in the Green–wood Cemetery of decaying bouquets and wedding bouquets found on the internet, saddest and happiest moments in a human's life.

| Textiles, mylar balloons, thread, snack packaging | 28 × 30 cm | Unique | Price On Application |

BOUQUET 2, 2021

Elodie Blanchard

Elodie Blanchard creates intricate colorful rich bouquets made of small repurposed scraps of textiles, plastic bags, mylar balloons and snack packaging that she layers and stitches together. These collages are all unique, at times realistic, at times abstract, from small sizes to large patterns.

Blanchard is playing with the contrast between the ephemerality of floral arrangements often commemorating important events and the long lifecycle of the waste materials she uses. The inspiration for these collages is drawn from the pictures she takes on her daily walks in the Green-wood Cemetery of decaying bouquets and wedding bouquets found on the internet, saddest and happiest moments in a human's life.

| Textiles, mylar balloons, thread, snack packaging | 30 × 25 cm | Unique | Price On Application |

BOUQUET 15, 2021

Elodie Blanchard

Elodie Blanchard creates intricate colorful rich bouquets made of small repurposed scraps of textiles, plastic bags, mylar balloons and snack packaging that she layers and stitches together. These collages are all unique, at times realistic, at times abstract, from small sizes to large patterns.

Blanchard is playing with the contrast between the ephemerality of floral arrangements often commemorating important events and the long lifecycle of the waste materials she uses. The inspiration for these collages is drawn from the pictures she takes on her daily walks in the Green-wood Cemetery of decaying bouquets and wedding bouquets found on the internet, saddest and happiest moments in a human's life.

Textiles, mylar balloons, thread, snack packaging   53 × 53 cm   Unique   Price On Application

BOUQUET 3, 2021

Elodie Blanchard

Elodie Blanchard creates intricate colorful rich bouquets made of small repurposed scraps of textiles, plastic bags, mylar balloons and snack packaging that she layers and stitches together. These collages are all unique, at times realistic, at times abstract, from small sizes to large patterns.

Blanchard is playing with the contrast between the ephemerality of floral arrangements often commemorating important events and the long lifecycle of the waste materials she uses. The inspiration for these collages is drawn from the pictures she takes on her daily walks in the Green–wood Cemetery of decaying bouquets and wedding bouquets found on the internet, saddest and happiest moments in a human's life.

Textiles, mylar balloons, thread, snack packaging   41 × 36 cm   Unique   Price On Application

BOUQUET 8, 2021

Elodie Blanchard

Elodie Blanchard creates intricate colorful rich bouquets made of small repurposed scraps of textiles, plastic bags, mylar balloons and snack packaging that she layers and stitches together. These collages are all unique, at times realistic, at times abstract, from small sizes to large patterns.

Blanchard is playing with the contrast between the ephemerality of floral arrangements often commemorating important events and the long lifecycle of the waste materials she uses. The inspiration for these collages is drawn from the pictures she takes on her daily walks in the Green-wood Cemetery of decaying bouquets and wedding bouquets found on the internet, saddest and happiest moments in a human's life.

| Textiles, mylar balloons, thread, snack packaging | 36 × 30 cm | Unique | Price On Application |

BOUQUET 14, 2021

Elodie Blanchard

Elodie Blanchard creates intricate colorful rich bouquets made of small repurposed scraps of textiles, plastic bags, mylar balloons and snack packaging that she layers and stitches together. These collages are all unique, at times realistic, at times abstract, from small sizes to large patterns.

Blanchard is playing with the contrast between the ephemerality of floral arrangements often commemorating important events and the long lifecycle of the waste materials she uses. The inspiration for these collages is drawn from the pictures she takes on her daily walks in the Green–wood Cemetery of decaying bouquets and wedding bouquets found on the internet, saddest and happiest moments in a human's life.

| Textiles, mylar balloons, thread, snack packaging | 56 × 79 cm | Unique | Price On Application |

BOUQUET 9, 2021

Elodie Blanchard

Elodie Blanchard creates intricate colorful rich bouquets made of small repurposed scraps of textiles, plastic bags, mylar balloons and snack packaging that she layers and stitches together. These collages are all unique, at times realistic, at times abstract, from small sizes to large patterns.

Blanchard is playing with the contrast between the ephemerality of floral arrangements often commemorating important events and the long lifecycle of the waste materials she uses. The inspiration for these collages is drawn from the pictures she takes on her daily walks in the Green-wood Cemetery of decaying bouquets and wedding bouquets found on the internet, saddest and happiest moments in a human's life.

| Textiles, mylar balloons, thread, snack packaging | 20 × 56 cm | Unique | Price On Application |

BOUQUET 11, 2021

Elodie Blanchard

Elodie Blanchard creates intricate colorful rich bouquets made of small repurposed scraps of textiles, plastic bags, mylar balloons and snack packaging that she layers and stitches together. These collages are all unique, at times realistic, at times abstract, from small sizes to large patterns.

Blanchard is playing with the contrast between the ephemerality of floral arrangements often commemorating important events and the long lifecycle of the waste materials she uses. The inspiration for these collages is drawn from the pictures she takes on her daily walks in the Green–wood Cemetery of decaying bouquets and wedding bouquets found on the internet, saddest and happiest moments in a human's life.

| Textiles, mylar balloons, thread, snack packaging | 66 × 53 cm | Unique | Price On Application |

BOUQUET 13, 2021

Elodie Blanchard

Elodie Blanchard creates intricate colorful rich bouquets made of small repurposed scraps of textiles, plastic bags, mylar balloons and snack packaging that she layers and stitches together. These collages are all unique, at times realistic, at times abstract, from small sizes to large patterns.

Blanchard is playing with the contrast between the ephemerality of floral arrangements often commemorating important events and the long lifecycle of the waste materials she uses. The inspiration for these collages is drawn from the pictures she takes on her daily walks in the Green–wood Cemetery of decaying bouquets and wedding bouquets found on the internet, saddest and happiest moments in a human's life.

Textiles, mylar balloons, thread, snack packaging   61 × 53 cm   Unique   Price On Application

BOUQUET 16, 2021

Elodie Blanchard

Elodie Blanchard creates intricate colorful rich bouquets made of small repurposed scraps of textiles, plastic bags, mylar balloons and snack packaging that she layers and stitches together. These collages are all unique, at times realistic, at times abstract, from small sizes to large patterns.

Blanchard is playing with the contrast between the ephemerality of floral arrangements often commemorating important events and the long lifecycle of the waste materials she uses. The inspiration for these collages is drawn from the pictures she takes on her daily walks in the Green–wood Cemetery of decaying bouquets and wedding bouquets found on the internet, saddest and happiest moments in a human's life.

| Textiles, mylar balloons, thread, snack packaging | 41 × 33 cm | Unique | Price On Application |

BOUQUET 17, 2021

Elodie Blanchard

Elodie Blanchard creates intricate colorful rich bouquets made of small repurposed scraps of textiles, plastic bags, mylar balloons and snack packaging that she layers and stitches together. These collages are all unique, at times realistic, at times abstract, from small sizes to large patterns.

Blanchard is playing with the contrast between the ephemerality of floral arrangements often commemorating important events and the long lifecycle of the waste materials she uses. The inspiration for these collages is drawn from the pictures she takes on her daily walks in the Green–wood Cemetery of decaying bouquets and wedding bouquets found on the internet, saddest and happiest moments in a human's life.

BOUQUET 18, 2021

Elodie Blanchard

Elodie Blanchard creates intricate colorful rich bouquets made of small repurposed scraps of textiles, plastic bags, mylar balloons and snack packaging that she layers and stitches together. These collages are all unique, at times realistic, at times abstract, from small sizes to large patterns.

Blanchard is playing with the contrast between the ephemerality of floral arrangements often commemorating important events and the long lifecycle of the waste materials she uses. The inspiration for these collages is drawn from the pictures she takes on her daily walks in the Green–wood Cemetery of decaying bouquets and wedding bouquets found on the internet, saddest and happiest moments in a human's life.

Textiles, mylar balloons, thread, snack packaging   56 × 46 cm   Unique   Price On Application

Elodie Blanchard

Elodie Blanchard is an artist and designer. Through material exploration, repurposing, and a near meditative process of repetition, she transforms the discarded and the commonplace into fantastical objects and playful environments that give us permission to explore our ambiguous relationship to nature, to others, and to ourselves.Her universe is joyful and humorous.

In addition to her artist practice, she partners with companies to develop textiles collections and architects to create large scale installations.

Born in Grenoble, France in 1976, Blanchard studied sculpture at l'Ecole Supérieure des Beaux Arts de Paris, fashion at l'Ecole des Arts Appliqués Duperré, where she explored the material intelligence of textiles, and performance at CalArts, where she collaborated with musicians and dancers. She established her design studio in 2005, and over the course of her career, collaborated with numerous architects, designers, and brands, developing textile collections and working on large scale works for public spaces, institutions, residences, offices, and hotels, in New York, Chicago, Los Angeles, Boston, Houston and abroad. She was most recently "interiors + sources" designer of the year and Artist in Residence at the Museum of Arts and Design in New York

SEEDSLONDON.COM
SEEDS@SEEDSLONDON.COM

Showroom by appointment:
4, Douro Place, London W8 5PH